OPP Command Staff,

Please find the HENDON report for today's date. In a briefing this morning to HENDON partners, Ottawa Police Service Intelligence Inspector Ken Bryden provided an overview from the perspective of the POJ. He articulated the numbers currently in the downtown core in Ottawa – they are declining but remain in flux. He cited that the crowd was “relatively cooperative” and I deem this important as the observation of the POJ and as relevant to any operational planning. There are certainly disruptive elements active in the downtown core.

A current intelligence requirement has shifted to more localized events as protesters withdraw from Ottawa. The POIB priority here is the potential for a protest in Toronto with a focus on Queens Park.

Thank-you,
Pat

Patrick J. Morris

Bureau Commander, Provincial Operational Intelligence Bureau
